Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

Though his life ended in difficult circumstances, Nikola Tesla spent the preceding 86 years as one of the most prolific inventors in human history. The Serbian-born scientist filed more than 300 patents, and his inventions paved the way for numerous modern-day technologies, including electric motors, radios, fluorescent lights, lasers, remote controls, and the alternating current (AC).

Based on stories of Tesla's childhood, Nikola had energy on his mind from an early age: young Nikola dreamed of harnessing the power of Niagara Falls. By 1887, he had developed the alternating current as a way to transmit power over long distances. But the concept wasn't immediately accepted. It wasn't until the 1893

World Fair in Chicago that Tesla was able to demonstrate the effectiveness of it. And when he did, it was glorious by any measure. He showed his AC electricity system to the fair's 25 million visitors, and wowed audiences by illuminating more light bulbs than one could find in the entire city of Chicago. Tesla even surprised visitors with a wireless electrical light bulb. Had Tesla given up, he would never have had the chance to demonstrate his concept to such a huge audience. But Tesla showed remarkable faith in himself and persisted until the opportunity of a lifetime arrived.

Question 35. Which of the following inventions is NOT mentioned as being influenced by Tesla's work?

- A. lasers B. radios C. electric motors D. televisions

Question 36. In paragraph 2, what does 'it' refer to in the sentence 'It wasn't until the 1893 World Fair in Chicago that Tesla was able to demonstrate the effectiveness of it.'?

- A. Tesla's childhood dream B. Alternating current C. Niagara Falls D. The World Fair

Question 37. What is the OPPOSITE of 'glorious' as used in the second paragraph?

- A. wonderful B. bright C. terrible D. impressive

Question 38. Which word could best replace 'remarkable' in the final sentence of the passage?

- A. typical B. ordinary C. common D. amazing

Question 39. What is the main idea of paragraph 1?

- A. Nikola Tesla and his most significant achievements. B. The challenges faced by Tesla during his career.
C. Tesla's early life and education. D. The impact of Tesla's inventions on modern technology.

Question 40. Which of the following best restates the meaning of the sentence: "If Tesla had given up, he would not have shown his idea to so many people."?

- A. Few people were interested in Tesla's work. B. Tesla's fame would have been greater if he quit.
C. Giving up is always the best option. D. Tesla's persistence was key to sharing his invention.

Question 41. Which of the following statements is TRUE according to the passage?

- A. Tesla was born in America. B. Tesla only invented AC electricity.
C. Tesla gave up many times before succeeding. D. Tesla showed his AC system at the World Fair in Chicago.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

[I]One of the most wonderful aspects of living in a multicultural world is the opportunity it presents for us to learn and grow from one another. [II]Each culture brings with it a unique set of customs, beliefs, and values [III] that shape the way its people see the world. [IV]By accepting these differences, we open ourselves up to new ways of thinking, challenging our own perspectives, and broadening our understanding of the world around us.

Imagine walking down the bustling streets of a cosmopolitan city, where the sights, sounds, and smells transport you to different corners of the globe. Here, you might encounter people dressed in traditional attire, hear languages spoken that are unfamiliar to you, and sample exotic cuisines that tantalize your taste buds. In this melting pot of cultures, every encounter becomes an opportunity for cultural exchange and mutual appreciation.

But the beauty of a multicultural world extends far beyond the surface level of food and fashion. It lies in the deeper connections we form with one another, transcending language and borders. Through shared experiences and stories, we discover that despite our differences, we are all fundamentally human, bound by our common hopes, dreams, and struggles. This teaches us the importance of empathy and understanding. When we take the time to listen to each other's stories and experiences, we develop a greater sense of empathy for those who may be different from us. We learn to recognize and appreciate the struggles and triumphs of others, fostering a sense of solidarity and compassion that transcends cultural boundaries.

Multiculturalism also fosters creativity and innovation, as diverse perspectives often lead to new ideas and solutions to complex problems. When people from different backgrounds work together, they share unique ideas and methods that can inspire innovation and help progress in ways that wouldn't happen in a similar group.

Question 42. What does the word "it" in paragraph 1 refer to?

- A. aspect B. living C. multicultural world D. opportunity

Question 43.Where does the following sentence best fit in the first paragraph: “It challenges our own perspectives.”

- A. rejecting B. understanding C. embracing D. tolerating

Question 45.Which word is closest in meaning to “encounter” as used in paragraph 2?

- A. ignore B. dislike C. avoid D. meet

Question 46.According to paragraph 2, which of the following is NOT mentioned as something that connects people in a multicultural world?

- A. political views B. similar struggles C. hopes and dreams D. shared stories

Question 47.Which of the following best summarizes the main idea of paragraph 3?

- A. Multiculturalism helps us be more creative and innovative.
B. Multiculturalism is only about food and fashion.
C. It is difficult for different cultures to work together.
D. People from different backgrounds always agree with each other.

Question 48.Which of the following statements is TRUE according to the passage?

- A. Multiculturalism only affects big cities.
B. People from different cultures never have disagreements.
C. Multiculturalism prevents people from understanding each other.
D. Shared experiences help people relate to each other across cultures.

Question 49.Which of the following best restates the meaning of the final sentence of paragraph 3: “This can lead to progress that might not happen if everyone was the same.”?

- A. Progress is impossible if people are different. B. Similar people are always more successful.
C. Progress is only possible if everyone agrees. D. Diversity helps us make progress in unique ways.

Question 50.Which of the following best summarizes the main points of the passage?

- A. Working with people from different cultures is always difficult.
B. Multiculturalism is only about food and clothing from other countries.
C. Multiculturalism offers opportunities for growth, understanding, and innovation.
D. It is important to stay within your own culture.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

Releasing balloons is more than just a litter problem. Released balloons can harm animals, humans, and even our environment by leading to accidents, injury, and even power outages.

Mylar balloons, the shiny metallic, silver-like balloons, cause thousands of power outages each year when they float away and come into contact with power lines.

Even balloons marked as “biodegradable” are harmful, as they can cause damage before they decompose. Because of this, there is no such thing as a “harmless” balloon release.

Balloons are also a waste of a precious finite resource — helium. Currently, we are facing a helium shortage in the U.S. While you may mostly associate the gaseous chemical with bouncy decorations, helium is actually used in a variety of essential medical procedures, including MRIs. Doctors around the world are concerned about this helium shortage, and using helium for balloons is only making the shortage worse.

A report from NBC News points out that “liquid helium is liquid gold to a host of industries.” According to Bill Halperin, a professor of physics at Northwestern University, “helium is a nonrenewable resource. NASA and SpaceX need helium for liquid fuel rockets. The MRI industry needs helium. The pharmaceutical industry is reliant on helium. And so is the Department of Defense.”

One popular alternative to balloon releases is “sky lanterns,” sometimes referred to as Chinese lanterns. During festivals in countries such as China, Brazil, and India, it is common to look up and see hundreds of glowing paper lanterns floating up into the night sky. Those are like tiny hot air balloons that use a candle or fuel cell to heat the air inside the lantern, causing it to rise and float away. However, these lanterns create similar litter problems and are also a fire hazard. In fact, they are illegal in some U.S. states.

(Adapted from <https://keepmassbeautiful.org>)

Question 35: Which of these problems is NOT mentioned as being caused by balloons?

- A. water pollution B. injuries to animals C. power outages D. helium shortage

Question 36: What is the opposite of 'shortage' as used in paragraph 3?

- A. lack B. scarcity C. extra D. need

Question 37: In paragraph 2, what does the word 'they' refer to?

- A. power outages B. power lines C. mylar balloons D. accidents

Question 38: Which word could best replace 'essential' in paragraph 3?

- A. simple B. regular C. optional D. important

Question 39: Which of the following best restates the meaning of the sentence: "There is no such thing as a "harmless" balloon release"?

- A. Some balloon releases are okay. B. All balloon releases cause some harm.
C. Harmless balloons are easy to find. D. Releasing balloons is always safe.

Question 40: Which of the following statements is TRUE according to the passage?

- A. Sky lanterns are safe for the environment. B. Helium is only used for balloons.
C. Biodegradable balloons do not cause any problems. D. Helium is needed for medical procedures like MRIs.

Question 41: Which paragraph mainly discusses an alternative to balloon releases and its problems?

- A. Paragraph 1 B. Paragraph 3 C. Paragraph 4 D. Paragraph 5

Read the following passage and choose the best answer to each of the following questions.

[I]Vo Thi Sau was born in 1933 in Ba Ria - Vung Tau province. [II]She was very young when Ho Chi Minh announced Vietnam's independence from France on September 2, 1945. [III]Inspired by the fight against colonial rule, Vo Thi Sau joined a local group of fighters. [IV]By the age of 14, she was already a committed soldier and made headlines by throwing a grenade at French soldiers, which killed one and injured several others.

Two years later, she tried to attack again but was captured before she could do more damage. Like many fighters, she was sentenced to death by firing squad.

On January 23, 1952, in her final moments, Vo Thi Sau sang. She chose not to wear a blindfold as they tied her up, and her singing continued until the gunshots ended her life. She was just 19 years old.

Today, Vo Thi Sau is buried on Con Dao Island, which has changed from a prison to a tourist spot. Every year, thousands of visitors come to her grave, bringing flowers and incense to honor her as a brave heroine. Although she is no longer singing, her name lives on in Vietnamese songs that celebrate her courage and sacrifice.
